"For the elegantly beautiful Suheir Hammad, a Palestinian from Brooklyn with formidable lyrical gifts and a distaste for always being seen as 'the exotic,' lovemaking is continually disrupted by flashing thoughts of the traumatic events and brutality unfolding around the globe." — Chicago Sun Times

"Suheir Hammad knows the sight and smell of war first hand as she recites "Daddy's Song." Her physical beauty and gracefulness pulls you into her quiet storm as it rips your mind open to the stew she's brewing. Her thoughts are poetic, but her message is beyond real." — San Francisco Bay View

"ZaatarDiva summons through moments of lyrical insight and urbane wit, again and again, and before we know what has happened, we are hooked." — Pulitzer Prize Winner, Yusef Komunyakaa
